To Whom It May Concern

Sankha Cooray has been working with us at our company as a Software Engineer for four years, and he has contributed a lot to the company in various capacities. I recognize him as a Responsive developer with higher motivation and trust. He has always been willing to accept challenging tasks and was delivering the software iterations promptly.

Outside the primary job description, Sankha has been involved in many social activities inside and outside the premises. Sankha initiated one of the well-planned music events and continued annually during his work period. Sankha has highly adapted to the company subculture and respects all company colleagues.

Regarding technical skills, I believe that he can adapt existing frameworks and technologies and use them in his own way. Taking some examples, I can explain some of his contributions as follows. Desktop games, technology enhance meeting, info display, AC controlling app, meditation quality analysis app with ambient light effects, and graffiti wall augmented reality experience.

If you would like additional information about employee Sankha, you can telephone me at +4793024664 or email me at stein@embla.asia.

Yours Sincerely,

Stein Inge Haaland
